

California Faith Leaders Letter to Governor Gavin Newsom

Aug 28, 2020

Dear Governor Newsom,

Six hundred faith and community leaders across California have signed the following faith letter urging you to suspend California's role in collaborating with ICE in the transfer of immigrants who are eligible to be released from local and state custody to immigration detention facilities during the state of emergency.

It is our understanding that there are various mechanisms available to you to do so, whether it is through executive authority or supporting efforts led by the state legislature such as a proposed budget trailer bill to suspend transfers.

Our letter includes:

53 Endorsements: These organizations include denominations, religious networks, conferences and non-profit organizations.

600 Signatures from Faith Leaders and Organizations: These signatures include Rabbis, Imams, Reverends, Priests, Sisters, Ministry Leaders, Buddhists, Pastors, and many others.
162 Cities Across California: These signatures come from all over California. From the Bay Area, Silicon Valley, Central Valley, Los Angeles, and cities outside of California!

"Jewish history teaches us: When those who have the power of governance, have the power to save lives and don't, because certain lives are considered disposable, history and faith will condemn these actions." -Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb, Board Chair, Interfaith Movement for Human Integrity

We prayerfully urge you to uphold human rights and respectfully ask you to take further steps to protect immigrants targeted by ICE and safeguarding the state's hard-fought efforts to flatten the curve and reduce the health risks of all Californians.

Respectfully,

Rev. Delval Lie

Reverend Deborah Lee, Executive Director

Interfaith Movement for Human Integrity and the undersigned organizations and individuals

VIA ELECTRONIC CORRESPONDENCE The Honorable Gavin Newsom 1303 10th Street, Suite 1173 Sacramento, CA 95814

RE: Request to Suspend Transfers to Immigration Detention Facilities

Dear Governor Gavin Newsom,

We are faith leaders, ministers, rabbis, imams, and people of faith from across California. We are all living in unprecedented times where we struggle to see an end to the COVID-19 pandemic and our future beyond the pandemic is unclear. We are deeply concerned that in the midst of the unprecedented, COVID-19 pandemic, immigrants who are eligible to be released from local and state custody continue to be funneled into Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) detention facilities where the virus is spreading rapidly and unabated. These transfers not only jeopardize the lives of immigrant community members, they also undercut the state's hard-fought efforts to flatten the curve and reduce the health risks of this highly transmissible virus for all Californians.

As an interfaith community, we are called by our shared values that believe all people are sacred and deserving of life, regardless of past convictions or immigration status. As people of faith, we believe that everyone has the right to live and survive this pandemic, and we are painfully aware that the racial disparities evident in our rates of incarceration, immigration, and Covid-19, are being manifested in this current moment.

We write to respectfully ask you to take further steps to protect all Californians by issuing an executive order that suspends California's role in collaborating with ICE in the transfers of people to immigration detention facilities during the state of emergency.

It is our belief that those living in incarceration who after much hard work have earned parole or release, should not be doubly punished and directly transferred to Immigration Customs and Enforcement for detention and deportation. We believe that everyone is capable of redemption, change, and transformation, that past convictions do not define who a person is now and can become, and that immigration detention while a person's immigration case is adjudicated is an unnecessary form of incarceration. Immigrants can safely proceed through their immigration cases without having to be detained and separated from their employment, families and communities. California should stop the unnecessary and voluntary practice of transferring immigrants to ICE, and shut-off the pipeline to immigration detention.

On May 6th, officials confirmed the first death of a detained immigrant, Carlos Escobar-Mejia, from COVID-19 at Otay Mesa, an ICE detention center located in San Diego County.¹ And on May 17th, Choung Won Ahn, a 74-year-old immigrant with severe health problems making him especially vulnerable to COVID-19, died by suicide after being transferred by the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) to Mesa Verde, an ICE detention facility in Bakersfield, Kern County.² As of July 16th, three more immigrants in ICE custody have died at local hospitals in Georgia, Florida, and Louisiana.³

Faith communities have been calling on detention and public officials to save lives. We have been tirelessly working to respond to this pandemic by offering housing and financial support for the recently released from prisons and detention facilities. We have sought to support efforts of re-entry and create parallels of post-release support for those released from immigration detention. An example of this is with community member Chanthon Bun, who was released from San Quentin on July 1st, instead of being directly transferred to ICE, he was allowed to be released to community members and stay in a local congregation. Mr. Bun has been able to recover from COVID-19 and begin steps for effective re-entry. Interfaith Movement for Human Integrity has a network of dozens of Sanctuary congregations and partners across California who train teams of volunteers to house and support immigrants facing deportation or who have recently been released from detention. Faith communities are prepared and can be reliable partners to work with you to assure those at highest risk of COVID-19 find immediate safe housing and support.

In the last four months medical experts, state and local elected officials, journalists, community organizations, and members of the public have urged your office to end ICE transfers. Public outcry around this cruel and voluntary practice has come in the form of news articles, letters, calls, and emails to your office, and a writ of mandate at the California Supreme Court. We now add our voices, and encourage you to act swiftly to suspend these voluntary transfers, and consequently save lives by preventing COVID-19 infections that are altogether avoidable.

I. Covid-19 Poses Grave Risk of Harm to Californians Transferred to ICE Detention

When people are incarcerated, they are, by design, kept in very close quarters. This makes social distancing impossible and puts people at serious risk of contracting COVID-19, a highly transmittable and potentially deadly virus. The risk of contracting severe symptoms of the virus are heightened for people who are incarcerated because as a result of poor living conditions and inadequate medical care, people in prison tend to be far less healthy than the general public. For example, 9% of California's inmates were classified as high clinical risk in 2012, meaning they had serious medical conditions that required significant resources to manage. In addition, more than one in ten male and one in five female people in prison used medication to treat asthma in 2010—about double the rate among Californians. People of color also are disproportionately represented in our state's prisons and ICE detention and are at higher risk of contracting and dying from the COVID-19 virus. Shockingly, a new epidemiological study projects that "COVID-19 could claim the lives of approximately 100,000 more people than current projections stipulate if jail populations are not dramatically and immediately reduced."

The poor health outcomes of people who are incarcerated are compounded further when they are transferred by the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and local jails to ICE detention facilities, which are notorious for medical neglect and unhygienic conditions. Given the rapid spread and lethal nature of COVID-19, ensuring that our community members return home can be a matter of life or death.

COVID-19 poses grave risk of harm to Californians transferred to ICE detention. Not only is it impossible to socially distance while detained, ICE is wholly ill-prepared and unwilling to provide adequate medical care to individuals in their facilities or protect its staff. In recent months, in at least three of California's detention centers, immigrants have spoken out about and organized hunger strikes to call attention to the crowded conditions, the influx of new detainees in the midst of the pandemic, the absence of dequate medical care, the lack of clean water, lack of basic cleaning supplies and personal protective equipment, and the utter impossibility of social distancing.⁸

Predictably, the ongoing medical neglect and inhumane conditions in immigration detention facilities have caused COVID-19 to spread inside these facilities at devastating rates. On April 26, 2020, ICE confirmed that 178 detained individuals tested positive for COVID-19. Less than a month later, as of May 22, 2020, ICE has reported a seven-fold increase in positive cases and a 50% positive testing rate with 1,201 positive cases out of 2,394 detained people tested. One of the largest outbreaks of the virus among all immigration detention facilities in the country is at the Otay Mesa facility in San Diego, California with 168 cases and counting. In light of the fact that ICE has not tested all of the 22, 340 people locked in immigration detention facilities throughout the country, and there is no public information about the number of detainees in California who have been tested, the number of COVID-19 cases are undoubtedly even higher.

In light of these deplorable conditions in immigration detention facilities in California, the state should use its powers to stop voluntarily funnelling people into these facilities.

II. Earning Release from Criminal Custody Should Not Result in a Transfer to ICE

While we recognize the initial steps you have taken to conduct early releases of people from CDCR custody to protect them from contracting the virus, we are concerned that for immigrants, being "released" will mean being transferred directly to ICE. People who have served time in jail or state prison and have earned release through obtaining parole, receiving a commutation from your office, or completing their sentence should have an opportunity to return home to their families to shelter in place and avoid potentially contracting the virus. A conviction for an offense committed decades or years ago, for which the person has served time and demonstrated that they have been on the path of rehabilitation, should not be turned into a potential death sentence by transferring that person to inhumane conditions in immigration detention. Transferring people to ICE to be caged for immigration enforcement purposes also is unnecessary as there are a variety of alternatives to ensure that people appear in immigration court. Regarding your recent commitment to release 8,000 individuals from CDCR custody, approximately 10%, or 800 of those released, will be transferred to ICE where they will needlessly be exposed to the virus.

It also is important to note that when individuals are released back to their families and communities, this provides them with an opportunity to seek immigration counsel and prepare for any deportation proceedings that may be initiated against them. Many of these individuals had green cards and are facing potential deportation due to the state criminal conviction resulting in the loss of their immigration status. And with the recent criminal justice reforms in California that provide avenues for obtaining post-conviction relief, they may be able to vacate or reduce their sentence, and thereby win their immigration case.

III. California Should Stop the Unnecessary and Voluntary Practice of Transferring Immigrants to ICE and Shut Off the Pipeline to Immigration Detention

Tragically, CDCR and many local jails continue to transfer community members who have earned release to immigration detention in the midst of this pandemic, even though California is under no legal obligation to assist the federal government with deportations. By contrast, California does have an obligation to protect all Californians from exposure to COVID-19, including people who are in state and local custody. For example in the case of Mr. Chuong Woong Ahn, he was 74 years old when he received parole and early release from Solano State prison. Mr. Ahn had siblings and a community that was ready to care for him, provide housing and employment upon his prison release. Unfortunately because CDCR allowed ICE to take him on the day of his release, instead of being reunited with his family, Mr. Ahn was taken to ICE detention, denied bond by ICE 3 times and took his own life while detained at Mesa Verde Immigratoin Detention Facility.

Since the pandemic started, transfers from California's prisons and jails have become the primary source of ICE's new bookings into California's immigration detention centers. In other words, it is the actions of the State of California, more than actions of ICE at this unique moment, that are keeping a flow of new people into ICE detention facilities. In litigation, ICE admitted that it "is continuing to transfer detainees from state and local criminal custody" while otherwise "limit[ing] the intake of new detainees being introduced into the ICE detention system." ¹³

While courts have ordered ICE to release some individuals through individual and class habeas petitions, these decisions will have little impact if ICE can simply replenish its detainee population through CDCR and local jail transfers. Indeed, as long as California continues to voluntarily hand over Californians to ICE facilities--where COVID-19 runs rampant and unchecked--many of our community members will face grave illness and death.

IV. Conclusion

The COVID-19 pandemic has made it abundantly clear that the fates of all Californians-- including detained immigrant community members -- are intertwined. As the federal administration further steps up attacks on our immigrant communities to increase fear and tear apart immigrant families, and as our immigration detention facilities have become a tinderbox for this deadly virus, we strongly believe California has an ethical and moral obligation to exercise bold and responsive leadership and take action to protect the rights of immigrants and the public health. We implore you to do more to save lives. We believe that every person's life is precious and worthy of saving. Everyone should be afforded health and safety and well being. As long as California continues to transfer community members to immigration detention where conditions are indisputably dangerous and even deadly, we cannot meaningfully stem the spread of COVID-19.

For all of these reasons, and our belief in the fundamental duty to care for others, including immigrants and those who are incarcerated, we respectfully ask you to protect all Californians by issuing an executive order that suspends transfers to ICE as long as COVID-19 poses a public health threat to community members in immigration detention. We look forward to collaborating with your office to ensure California continues to lead on immigrant rights and protecting public health.

Sincerely,

Rev. Deborah Lee
